"It was perfectly sain before my conference who she District Attorney of Weatchester county that he had not made any real effort to enforce the State laws bearing on probibition and the sale of liquor, but had passed the matter up to the Federal authorities. There can be no doubt as to the duty of the District Attorney under the State law to deal promptly and summarily with those who sell liquor for beverage purposes, and in the light of his silence more than seven months since prohibition became effective we consider that would not only be the fair thing, but all duty to the public, to give notice nediately on his return next Monday that, as part of a policy of cooperation with the Federal authorities, he intends to enforce the State law."
